and those who bravely fight today...
THANK YOU

Dear Parishioners,

This Sunday we celebrate the Solemnity of Corpus Christi, (the Body and Blood of Christ). We honor the great sacrament of the Holy Eucharist, the Real Presence of Christ given to the Church at the Last Supper and to be celebrated until the end of time.

The first reading today sounds like an ancient forerunner of the Mass, even including a collection. What the meal really represents is a post-battle victory dinner, hosted by Melchizedek, with Abram giving the king and priest some of the spoils won in battle. Even so, the heart of this reading is Melchizedek blessing God over bread and wine and asking a blessing for Abram.

In the second reading, Paul speaks about his handing on of the tradition he received while recounting the meal Jesus shared at the Last Supper before he was handed over to suffer and die. Bread was broken and named his body; the cup of wine was shared as a sign of the new covenant to be enacted through the shedding of his blood. In doing this throughout future generations, the community would proclaim Christ's saving death until his return.

In the Gospel, the multitude Jesus once fed with a few blessed loaves and fish now has become the people of God, a people of faith, also having suffered through the centuries, ever hungry for the living bread and thirsty for the saving cup, anticipating the banquet we shall share in the kingdom.

As Fr. Ben Luedtke has said in his conferences and homilies, the Mass is not looking back 2000 years to Jesus' suffering and death. Rather, each time from the moment we enter Mass and the priest kisses the altar, the altar becomes Calvary and we are transported 2000 to Jesus as he suffers and dies. The passion and death of Jesus are actually happening in the Mass.

The Holy Eucharist is truly the body, blood, soul, and divinity of Jesus Christ. Each Mass we attend and each Eucharist we receive should be received as if it would be the last one of our lives. Therefore, let us examine our lives. What would we say to Jesus and how differently we would receive him, if we knew it would be our last time?

Blessings, Fr. Craig

We keep in our prayers, the soul and family of
